

I am having a blood
test

Sometimes the doctor needs to look at a little of my blood.

I can ask what the test is for.

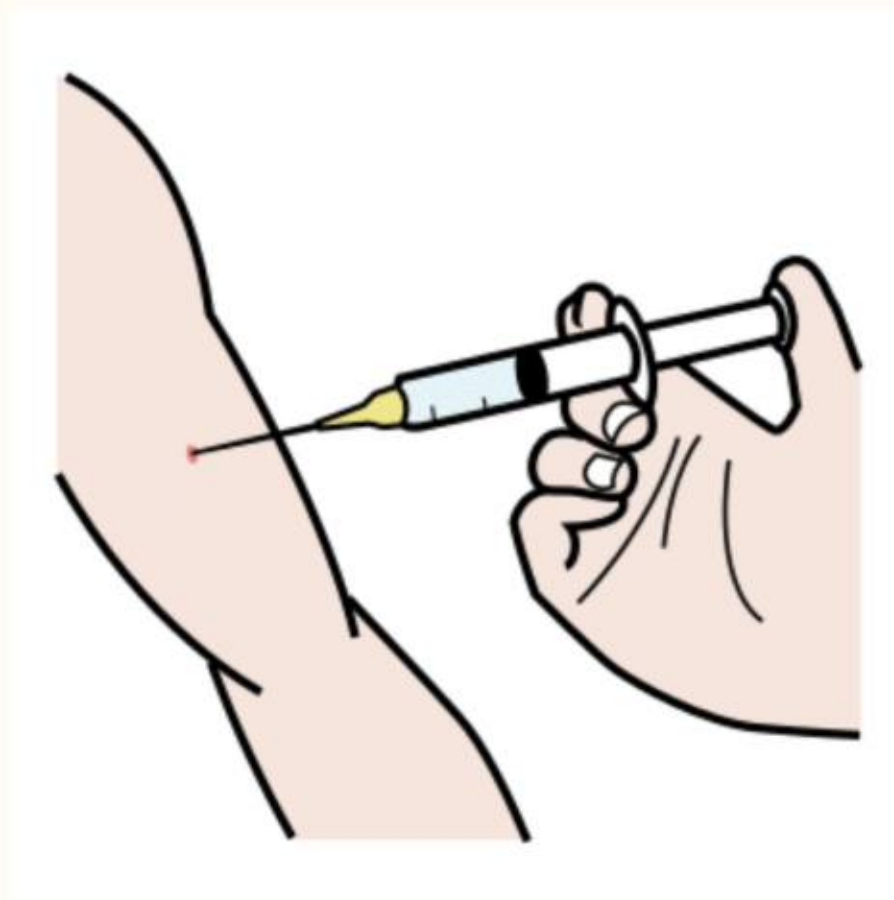

Blood helps to show how my body
is.

Usually, I sit in a chair and they put a band round my arm.

I can have someone from my family next to me.

The band squeezes a little and then they take it off.

Then they put a small needle in my arm. It can hurt a little.

I can look the other way and breathe slowly.

The jab is quick.

At the end, they put a plaster on.

I can press gently where the plaster is.

The blood test is finished.
