

If I get lost

Sometimes, in a busy place, I walk off and my family is out of sight.

When I notice, I can stay still where I am.

Staying in the same place helps them find me sooner.

From there I can look around.
I can look for someone who works
there or a family with children.
Some people's job is to help
anyone who gets lost.

That person asks me my name.
I can say my name or show my card.

My card has my family's phone number on it.

That person makes a phone call
and we wait together.

While I wait, I can breathe slowly
or squeeze my ball.

Usually, my family arrives after a while.

When my family arrives, we carry on together.

I can tell them what happened
when I feel calm.

Getting lost happens to lots of children, and it gets sorted out.
